Katie's Run heats up Haliburton

Local fitness trainer Lorie Kah leads 171 participants in a warm-up before the start of the fifth annual Katie's Run for Epilepsy on Saturday, July 9 at the Gary G. Brohman Athletic Field in Haliburton. DARREN LUM Staff

There were 171 participants, an event record, for the Katie's Run for Epilepsy. Inspired by Katie Woudstra of Haliburton, the participants helped set an event record total of $30,000 for Epilepsy Canada, beating the previous high of $18,000 set last year. The new venue and the auction were contributors, including top fundraiser eight-year-old Trystan Bitten of Minden who raised $3,425.

Jazz night to feature Tia Brazda

Tia Brazda is a Canadian jazz singer originally from Vancouver, now residing in Toronto. Her debut EP, Cabin Fever burst onto the scene in February 2012, hitting No. 1 on the iTunes Canada jazz Chart as well as receiving play on BBC and CBC Radio, Jazz FM 91.1 and college radio stations across Canada. Having honed her cutting-edge sound in the clubs of Toronto, Brazda's sassy songs and pin-up girl style have made a startling impression. Her music pays homage to the golden era while still remaining daringly modern.

Brazda has toured the world performing from Montreal to Paris to Amsterdam, and has played such festivals as the Toronto Beaches Jazz Festival, the Sudbury Jazz Festival, the Barrie Jazz Festival, the Maui Waui Festival and Bestival (U.K.).

She will be performing at Canoe FM's Jazz at the Museum in Haliburton on Saturday, July 23, at 7:30 p.m. Featuring Chris Gale on sax, Mike Freedman on guitar, Chris Graham on piano, Chris Adriaanse on bass and Morgan Childs on drums, it is sure to be a remarkable evening. Tickets are $30 (cash only) and available at the Haliburton Highlands Museum, 66 Museum Rd., Haliburton or by calling the museum at 705-457-2760 or Canoe FM at 705-457-1009.

Dorset Art and Garden Tour will light up your weekend

If you really want to get to know the Dorset area, take the Dorset Art and Garden Tour on Saturday, July 23 and Sunday, July 24, 10 to 5 p.m. It's free, and it takes you down winding scenic roads you never knew Dorset had. It's real, 'cause it plunks you right in the middle of the gardens, studios and homes of the creative people who live in and around Dorset, and it's fun 'cause you get to meet the fascinating, brave and sometimes eccentric creators behind the works of art and hear their stories. International tourists would pay big bucks to have such a close-up peek into rural, Canadian life and culture.

Beautiful works of art have evolved from everyday life in Dorset, each one a unique and very Canadian response to the beauty that surrounds the artists and gardeners: pottery by Tara Gilchrist; paintings by Brenda Turnour, Lynne Hollingsworth, Jill Segal and Elizabeth Johnson; sculptures by Elise Muller, Peter Kourtz and Chris Keene; fibre art by Carolyn Misener; fine wood furniture by Cirvan Hamilton and wood-turned bowls by Bob Scott; jewelry and creative designs by Kate Weatherell and Diana Scott, plus all their beautiful gardens and those of Jeaninne Dunn and Diane and Gary Thompson.

A bright red painted flower is the logo that demarks the Dorset Art and Garden Tour. Now in its second year, the tour promises you a unique, educational and exciting weekend with its expanded palette of studios and gardens. The little piece of Muskoka or Haliburton that you take home with you will be a source of endless pleasure.

Brochures with maps of the tour, of local restaurants and of places of interest are available at all Dorset businesses and studios.

Satisfying the lust to wander at Rails End

By Angela Long

Even as the last paintings were being hung, visitors wandered into the Rails End Gallery's "Wanderlust" exhibition.

Gallery curator and director Laurie Jones wasn't surprised.

"Lust," she said. "For Haliburton, that's edgy."

Inspired by Ontario's Highlands Tourism Organization "come wander" campaign, Jones chose "Wanderlust: the irresistible desire to roam" as this year's theme for the Haliburton School of Art and Design Faculty Exhibition. She invited 180 HSAD itinerant artists and teachers to embark upon a voyage of their chosen medium. Twenty-eight agreed to participate, creating one-of-a-kind works for the annual exhibition.

Jones was surprised by the wide-ranging results.

"Some responded in playful ways," she said."Others spoke to a longing, a thwarted desire the word wanderlust evokes."

Once a main station for the Victoria Railway, where at its peak in 1880 nearly 70,000 passengers satisfied their desire to roam, the Rails End Gallery is well-suited as a repository of traveller's dreams. While passenger service ended in the early '70s, gallery visitors can still climb aboard to explore what Jones said are exhibitions that challenge perceptions and expand awareness.

Canadian Museums Association summer employee, Allen Amatsuji-Berry, helped Jones hang and light the HSAD show. He pointed to his favourite painting – "far flung" — admiring its bursts of colour obscured by near-transparent layers of white.

"It asks you to look deeper rather than accept what's on the surface," he said.

Amatsuji-Berry moved here from Peterborough last week, but already feels at home at Rails End. He stands back from "far flung" and smiles.

"Art has the power to change things," said Jones. "But most importantly, art makes you happy."

Saturday's visitors happily wandered many worlds – from Jill Segal's Sacred Spaces to Hannah Strand's Sojourner, from Rob Stimpson's Destination Unknown to Margaret Ferraro's River. They travelled from mixed media to needle felting, from digital photography to pastels.

> Art has the power to to change things, But most importantly, art makes you happy.
> — Laurie Jones

Fabric artist Gayle McIvor created a cloak made from reclaimed denim, batik, embroidery.

"That's a traveller's cloak if I ever saw one," Jones said, pointing to its peaked hood.

After 10 years of thinking up themes for the show, and travelling from her home on Toronto Island to Haliburton, Jones said she's finally come full circle.

"I started with the idea of attraction, contact. Then moved on to creation. The child that's in my head can walk now, and they are exploring."

Jones plans to spin out this circle of life theme as long as possible, she said, "because no one wants to die."

Wandering is just too irresistible to miss.

Wanderlust runs until Aug. 12.

New summer hours: Tuesday to Thursday: 11-7, Friday 11-6, Saturday 10-5, Sunday 11-4, closed on Mondays

See www.railsendgallery.com for a list of other events, such as ukulele jams and drum circles.

Canadian Museums Association summer employee Allen Amatsuji-Berry and Rails End Gallery curator and director Laurie Jones hang the final painting for the HSAD Faculty Exhibition and Sale.

Rails End Gallery and Arts Centre curator and director Laurie Jones, far right, welcomes visitors to the HSAD Faculty Exhibition and Sale which opened on July 2. The Wanderlust inspired exhibition, featuring 28 artists, runs until Aug. 12.

Vignettes from life: There was once a scared little spider

By Peter Walford-Davis

Henry Ward Beecher, once wrote, "The Creator planted fear in the soul, as truly as He planted hope and courage. Fear is a type of bell, or gong, which rings the mind into quick life and avoidance upon the approach of danger. It is the soul's signal for rallying."

Not long ago, I was sitting at the kitchen table enjoying a cup of coffee, when a movement on the window caught my attention. A spider, just a little fellow, appeared to be dancing some sort of jig. He would run a few inches to the right, and then repeat the dance, running a few inches to the left. Then, he'd retreat to the corner, always protecting his back with the window corner. This activity was repeated over and over. Why was he so agitated? The little fellow was scared silly! But why? I looked more closely at the window, and saw the reason for his fear. Further away on the pane of glass sat another spider, but he was large and menacing, hungrily eyeing his intended breakfast. I have seen more than one web decorated with the remains of small spiders, and to the big spider, here was another to decorate his web and fill his tummy!

The manoeuvering continued, the larger spider lunging toward the little fellow, who in turn tried vainly to find some method of escape. The large spider retreated to the opposite corner of the window in order to contemplate his next move. The little fellow just sat shivering, and resting, fearful of what would happen next.

Suddenly I realized that the little fellow's fears were groundless. No, I had no intention of killing the big bully, nor remove the little one either. This fearful drama was being enacted on both sides of the pane of glass. The little one was inside the kitchen window, while the big spider was on the outside. But neither the antagonist nor the intended victim knew this, and for them this was a matter of life and death.

Finally, the large spider was fed up with all this playing around, and lunged at the little fellow, so fast, that the latter just froze – and big bully just ran over him. Imagine his surprise when he realized that he hadn't caught his breakfast after all – "How could he have escaped me?" While he pondered this strange course of events, the little fellow took off for parts unknown, just in case his good luck might run out.

How often can we transfer this analogy to our own lives. Often fearful of nothing but our own imagination, and that fear gradually crippling us, until we lose the joy of living, and then theoretically retreat into a corner as did the little spider, waiting for the worst to happen.

To say that we shouldn't be fearful is in itself dangerous. Better to accept Beecher's quotation, as a warning bell that directs our action, or at the very least alerts us to possible danger.

The fear of falling is a definite worry for the elderly, especially during the winter. Several months of hospitalization might well result. So being particularly careful is the order of the day. "I won't go out in the winter then." might be a typical response. But statistics have proven that many elderly folk have tripped and fallen in their own living room, catching a foot on the carpet.

Youngsters in school become fearful when examinations loom before them. Some worry so much that they freeze, and the mind becomes a veritable blank. Of course, there could be an element of guilt as well, if no studying had been done in anticipation of the day of reckoning. How does one expect to pass? All you can do is your best. No one expects any more than that.

In the spiritual realm of life lies the answer to much of our fearfulness. Scriptures tell us that. "There is no fear in love, and perfect love casts out fear." Grand words indeed, but how effective in the life of a man or woman who have little or no relationship with their Creator? We are told that when problems arise, we react in one of two ways. Either we face up to them or we seek to run away. The latter course never resolves our difficulty, and will continue to haunt us, but the former results in a healing, because we employ a strength, found in our Creator, and in support from relatives and friends.

The spiritual dimension of life is one too often neglected. Life is never lived on a level playing-field, and we all face difficulties of one kind or another. The little spider figured he had had it, while facing the size of the big bully. Yet he was wrong. We sometimes feel that there is no answer to our problem, yet we too are often quite wrong. Explore the spiritual dimension of your existence. Meditation, prayer and fellowship with likeminded individuals, creates a source of comfort and support, and enriches your life.

Gives us something to think about, doesn't it?

Be watchful of animals that spread rabies

Summer vacation is arriving for many people, and so too is an increased risk of exposure to animals that could bite or spread rabies.

Typically in warmer weather, the Haliburton, Kawartha, Pine Ridge District Health Unit sees an increase in the number of reported animal bites/scratches incidents in the area. That situation could be heightened during summer vacation as more people visit cottages and campgrounds, or explore parks and other natural areas where they can come in contact with animals.

"It's important that local residents, cottagers, campers and other visitors to the area are careful around animals," says Md Azad, a public health inspector with the HKPR District Health Unit. "This is especially true for children, who should not pet or approach a wild animal, but enjoy it safely from a distance. If a wild animal is growling or being aggressive, get away from it as quickly as possible."

The same warning to avoid wild animals also applies to dogs, cats and other pets, he adds. People should not approach or pet animals without the permission, and full attention, of the owner. Pets should be kept under control using a leash, and should be discouraged from running free.

"Even if people just want to be well-meaning and kind by petting or touching an animal, their actions can be misinterpreted by a dog or cat, leading to potential problems such as rabies," Azad says.

Rabies is almost always a fatal disease caused by a virus that affects the central nervous system of warm-blooded animals, including humans. Rabies can be transmitted to people when they have contact with the saliva of an infected animal – either wild or domestic – through bites, licks or scratches.

The health unit must be notified any time an animal bite/scratching incident takes place. Public Health Inspectors investigate each incident to determine if there is a risk of rabies to the person. The animal involved is quarantined for a 10-day period to confirm that is was not sick with rabies when it bit or scratched the victim. Health unit staff will provide rabies vaccine for the victim, if deemed necessary. An order can also be issued to put the animal down if it poses a risk to public health.

"The best way to reduce your risk of rabies is to avoid animals that can scratch, nip or bite you," Azad notes. "It is also important to ensure your own pet is up-to-date on its rabies vaccination."

Each fall, the health unit and local veterinarians team up to offer low-cost rabies vaccination clinics for dogs and cats in the area. To find out more about the vaccination clinics and rabies prevention, call the health unit toll-free at 1-866-888-4577 or visit www.hkpr.on.ca

Gallery brings art to life

The 53rd annual Haliburton Art and Craft Show is a three-day outdoor festival in Haliburton Village's beautiful Head Lake Park. This juried craft show and sale showcases some of the best craft, designer fashion and accessories and visual art from across Ontario, including artists from Haliburton County. The festival is presented by Rails End Gallery and Arts Centre volunteers in support of year round community arts programming. This year all visitors can enter a free draw to win a weekend workshop with Robert Bateman and other super prizes. Admission is just $3 and it's good for the whole three day weekend. The first 100 visitors will receive a free #myhaliburton-highlands tote bag.

This year, Rails End is delighted to welcome several new and emerging artisans to the festival, by far the largest cultural event in Haliburton County with 125 artists. A full schedule of daily events includes artist demonstrations, Tai Chi demos, a Funky yoga stretch 'n' fashion session, drum circle mania with Bazza, buskers galore and a family art zone.

The festival is your chance to visit with artists and artisans who create unique and artful objects using paint, glass, clay, wood, photography, metal, jewels, cloth, wool and leather. Bring something handcrafted and beautiful home with you – for the home or cottage, for friends and family, or just for yourself because you love it! Can't wait? Find out all about the Artists who will be there at www.railsendgallery.com or visit Facebook/railsend or Twitter @haliburtonfestival.

Plan to spend a day, or two, or even three getting to know a great group of artists and artisans and their work. Admission is just $3 and all proceeds help support Rails End Gallery and Arts Centre's year round community arts programming.

Rails End is a public art gallery located in Haliburton's heritage railway station, a registered Canadian charity devoted to bringing art to life in Haliburton and a member of the Ontario Association of Art Galleries, the Ontario Crafts Council and Arts Council ~ Haliburton Highlands.

See you in the park! Hours: Friday, July 24, 12 to 7 p.m., Saturday, July 25, 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m., Sunday, July 26, 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

CULTURE COUNTS IN DYSART

An update from Dysart et al Cultural Planning Committee

What Is a Municipal Cultural Plan?
The Municipal Cultural Plan is an economic development plan, which focuses on arts, culture and heritage. The Plan provides direction for cultural planning initiatives over 10 years and is designed to coordinate and enhance the actions of the Municipality and community groups. Following a dynamic public engagement process, Council adopted the Municipality's first municipal cultural plan in 2012.

Who Are The Key Players?
Implementation of the Municipal Cultural Plan is overseen by the Cultural Resources Committee, which includes members from the Municipality, the Haliburton County Development Corporation, Fleming College Haliburton School of Art + Design, the Haliburton County Library, Rails End Gallery and Arts Centre, Haliburton Highlands Museum, Arts Council – Haliburton Highlands, the business community, the recreation community, the youth community and the media. Coordinated by Director of Planning and Development, Patricia Martin, the current community representatives include Chair and Councillor Andrea Roberts, Councillor Tammy Donaldson, Sandra Dupret, Bessie Sullivan, Kate Butler, Laurie Jones, Jim Blake, Chris Lynd, Roxanne Casey and Autumn Smith.

What's New?
A entertaining and informative series of "cultural moments" can be heard on CANOE FM and are part of the Committee's outreach and awareness plan, which includes social media and online video, forums for local cultural ogranizations and an inventory of local cultural assets. Thanks to the Committee Dysart now has a Public Art Policy and a survey of municipally owned culturally significant objects and installations is underway. Municipal support for Festivals and events is a priority for The Plan. On behalf of the Dysart Cultural Planning Committee I hope you have a spectacular weekend the Haliburton Art and Craft Festival and encourage you to participate in one of the many 2017 events planned for Dysart et al's 150th Anniversary.

Artfully yours, Laurie Jones, Curator, Rails End Gallery and Arts Centre

Pinestone announces Edgewater Music Festival

Month long entertainment series to feature Canadian musical talent

Pinestone Resort and Conference Centre announced last week their new Edgewater Music Festival series planned for this August. Every Sunday in August, music lovers will have the chance to enjoy some of Canada's best musical artists performing on a stage on the shore of the resort's beautiful 14 acre pond. Sitting on a grassy bank, watching the sun set and listening to great music is a quintessentially Canadian way to end a summer day. Helping to create a true festival experience, tasty food and beverage offerings from Stone 21's kitchen and bar will also be available at the site.

The events are produced under the skilled leadership of Lesley English, who provides over a decade of experience producing similar shows throughout the county.

The festival will feature such entertainment offerings as Grammy and Juno award winning singer/songwriter Alfie Zappacosta, Reggae sensations Circle 5 and acapella group The Nylons on their farewell tour. Special midweek and family shows are also being added to the lineup.

A number of these events will help to raise funds for local charities and not for profit organizations including YWCA Woman's Shelter, local food banks and poverty relief agencies.

Pinestone general manager John Teljeur is very excited about the new program, "We're thrilled to have a program like this happening at the resort where guests and community members can come, enjoy some great entertainment and do something great for the community."

Tickets are on sale now.

The Uncle Bob's Kids Rock Bass Derby was held July 9 despite the weather. 12 brave souls showed up with the families and fished our lakes clean of rock bass. These kids were ages three to twelve. This derby is a total weight event and the winner caught 18 lbs of fish. Quite a feat for a kid. Thanks to Betty Hayward and her family for putting on this annual event in memory of Bob Hayward. It is always fun to see these little guys' faces when they win a prize and a ribbon. Submitted
